Nazis Open Anti-Church-Jewish Campaign

ANTI-SEMITIC BACKER GIVEN POLICE POST

Nazi Newspapers Openly Declare Campaign Against Jews

Berlin, July 19 (AP)—Magnus von Levetzow, who failed to chase the Jews out of Berlin or at least restrict them to the Ghetto, resigned today, under fire, as Berlin police president and his post was filled by Count von Helldorf, regarded as a violent anti-Semite.

It was he who, in 1929, organized the first anti-Semitic demonstration on the Kurfuerstendamm, where several Jews were beaten up this week in anti-Semitic outbreaks.

He was appointed to the post by Wilhelm Frick, minister of the interior, following a stormy meeting of Nazi party leaders and officials.

An anti-Semitic campaign meanwhile developed openly. In Schoenenburg, a Berlin suburb, banners were stretched across the streets announcing, "We do not want to see any Jews in Berlin," "Out with the Jews," and similar messages.

Attacks Marriages.
The official Nazi news journal attacked the Berlin marriage license bureau with a headline: "Is racial shame still tolerated in Berlin?" Although no legal decrees exist which forbid the intermarriages of Aryans and non-Aryans, the city administration was berated for not forbidding such marriage at registration.

The third Reich, meanwhile, strove today to justify its dual campaign against Catholicism and the Jews.

Reichsfuehrer. Adolf Hitler's voelkischer beobachter, supporting the order for vigorous enforcement of laws against "political Catholicism," gave front page display to alleged subversive utterances of Catholic priests.

Nazi propaganda provocation from both sides, Julius Streicher's "sterner" warned of Jewish "provocateurs" and asserted: "He who falls for them is a traitor." It warned, "Doomsday will not fail to come."

New anti-Jewish outbreaks cropped up in the northern district of the city, where customers were reported to have been chased down side streets and manhandled.

GOODRICH PLEADS GUILTY TO DEATH OF DETROIT GIRL

Enters Guilty Plea as Court Opens For Third Day; Given Life Imprisonment

Detroit, July 19 (AP) — Merton Ward Goodrich pleaded guilty today to the brutal murder of 11-year-old Lillian Gallaher and was given a maximum sentence of life imprisonment at hard labor in the Michigan branch prison at Marquette.

The guilty plea came a few minutes after the opening of the third day of the former trap-drummer's trial in recorder's court, following testimony by Dr. David R. Clark, receiving hospital psychiatrist, that Goodrich was not insane.

The confessed slayer, who declared "it must have been the other side of my nature" which led him to entice the girl to his one-room apartment here last September 20, attack and murder her, stood trembling before Judge Henry S. Sweeney as the sentence, mandatory under Michigan law, was pronounced.

For two days the state had hammered at Goodrich's defense of temporary insanity, and twice Goodrich had won on the verge of terminating the trial by pleading guilty.

Man Wanted In Missouri, Held

Corpus Christi, Texas, July 19 (AP)—Joe Hanley and Harold Harpin, charged with kidnaping two Rockport, Mo., officers last June 6, were held here today awaiting government agents from Omaha, Neb.

The men, wanted for the abduction of Sheriff Herman C. Bredenstein and his deputy, Dean S. James, who were taken to South Sioux City, Neb., were held under bonds totaling $75,000.

Arrested at Gollad yesterday, they were arraigned under the "Lindbergh" law late in the day before United States Commissioner A. J. Mount. In addition to the Missouri case Hanley was charged with kidnaping Ernest Newman, Sioux City, Iowa, bank messenger, last Feb. 4 in a robbery.

San Antonio federal agents said Hanley had served prison terms in Iowa and Minnesota.

POLICE IDENTIFY MAN SHOT TRYING TO EVADE ARREST

Earl Markson of Sioux City Fatally Wounded, Claimed to Be St. Louis Resident

Des Moines, July 19 (AP)—Assistant Chief of Detectives Sherman E. Delmege said today a man shot to death here last night while evading arrest had been identified as Earl Markson, alias Elmer Black, of Sioux City.

Markson was fatally wounded by Detective Lorin Miller when he leaped from the rear seat of an automobile in which Miller was taking him, another man and a woman to police headquarters for investigation. Markson's companions escaped.

Identification was made through fingerprints, Delmege said.

Markson, who told police he was Frank M. Wade of St. Louis, died at Broadlawn general hospital. He suffered a single bullet wound in the abdomen.

Arrested Trio. Miller said he arrested the trio for investigation after receiving a tip that a criminal gang from outside Iowa was planning a holdup here.

Miller was driving alone when he saw a black Buick sedan resembling the one the gang was said to be using, parked near Ninth St. and Grand Avenue.

He waited until Markson, another man and the woman entered the car. He arrested them, got in the back seat with Markson, and told the other man to drive to police headquarters.

At Sixth St. and Grand Ave., the driver turned south. When the car reached the alley, Markson jumped out and ran.

Miller leaped out after him and fired one. Markson fell to the sidewalk.

The driver of the car turned up the alley and escaped with his woman companion.

Delmege said Des Moines police records showed Markson was arrested here in 1933 as a holdup suspect, had served time in the Missouri penitentiary for robbery and had broken jail at Tulsa, Okla., while being held for forgery.

Bank Robbers Take $48,000

Chester, Pa., July 19 (AP)—Five robbers today held up a branch of the Delaware County National bank and fled with $48,000.

The holdup men, all masked, covered employees and patrons with guns, forcing them to lie on the floor.

They scooped the money from the cashier's cage and fled in an automobile.

The branch bank handles payroll money for several industrial plants here and in nearby Marcus Hook. Police said the holdup was timed to take place just before the money was sent to the plants.

The bank is located in the heart of an industrial section.

CCC Enrollment In State Short

Des Moines, July 19 (AP)—Civilian Conservation Corps enrollment in Iowa, July 19, was 8,691, Maj. A. E. Franklin, Fort Des Moines army post, reported, but that is 759 below the state's quota.

At normal strength, he said, the 45 companies should number 9,450 youths. Increased regular employment explains the shortage, the major declared.

Four more companies, three from Kansas and one from Arkansas are expected to be moved to this state soon.

HAILE ADDRESS CALL TO ARMS TO ETHIOPIANS

Italians Interpret Talk As Determined to Resist Italy

(By Associated Press)
Emperor Haile Selassie's exhortations to the Ethiopians to "fight to the last man" have aroused enthusiasm in Ethiopia and increased the determination of Italians.

Unofficial Italian sources interpreted the Emperor's speech as indicating he would not give in to Italian demands. Ethiopians were reported considering his plea as practically a call to arms.

In London, the speech acted as a stimulus to Great Britain's efforts to arrange peace between the two nations.

Officials of the League of Nations indicated hope that the Italo-Ethiopian dispute might yet be settled by peaceful means, pointing out that the commission of conciliation still has until July 25 to reach a decision or to extend its deliberation.

In Tokyo, the newspaper Nichi said the Japanese foreign office attached particular importance to the East African crisis because it was a dispute between white and colored races, but a foreign office spokesman asserted that Japan merely is "watching with great concern."

Prepare for War. The cheers and cries of the almost fanatical Ethiopian tribal warriors resounded in Menelik square—its dust trodden by the bare feet of provincial soldiers carrying the "mushnet" of modern warfare—where leaders from all classes of life organized a new patriotic society.

The black-bearded king of kings and conquering lion of Judah turned his personal attentions immediately to his army, announcing the promotion of several officers with whom he offered to shed his own life blood, if need be, for independence from Italy.

The prevailing tropical rains guarded against any immediate outbreak of hostilities, but American and European residents of this highest capital, towering above the boggy lowlands, were convinced that all hopes for peace after the rainy season ends in September were relinquished.

Foreigners took some consolation from a personal pledge by the emperor that, whatever happens, no harm would befall their lives or property at the hands of Ethiopians.

The Ethiopian Coptic Christians welcomed a pledge of loyalty and armed support of Mohammedans, given by the Somali chief of Ogaden at the close of the emperor's address yesterday to parliament.

Speaking in Arabic, which was translated into the state language of Amharic, the Somali chief declared that the Mohammedans would fight to the last man against any invader and cried: "Long live the emperor and Ethiopia."

The emperor himself asserted, "regardless of faith, all will face the invader in community, thwarting the efforts to Italy to create discord between Christians and Mohammedans."

COOPER LAWYERS FILE LIBEL SUIT AGAINST EDITOR

Cedar Rapids Editor Named in $50,000 Court Action; Outgrowth of Article in Paper

Marshalltown, Ia., July 19 (AP)—A libel suit for $50,000 was filed in district court here today by Boardman and Cartwright, Marshalltown attorneys, against the Cedar Rapids Gazette company, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Verne Marshall, editor of the Gazette, the Marshalltown News Agency and A. H. Burnstein, proprietor of that agency.

The suit is the outgrowth of an article which appeared in the Cedar Rapids Gazette on Saturday, May 4, 1935, written by Marshall, Boardman and Cartwright, and captioned "Struggling to Escape a Showdown."

In that article it was declared Boardman and Cartwright were delaying filing their briefs in the appeal of the H. M. Cooper case and that their "stalling strategy was apparently designed to leave Thompson (Linn county attorney) breathless and prepare his reply."

The plaintiffs declare that they were constantly seeking "to advance the cause and using every effort to obtain an early submission of the case to the supreme court of the state vs. Harold M. Cooper."

The plaintiffs declare that by the publication of the article they have been damaged in the sum of $25,000 actual damages and $25,000 exemplary damages and for costs.

The Marshalltown News Agency and its proprietor, A. H. Burnstein, have been included in this action as defendants because through the agency Burnstein acted in the distribution of the edition of the Cedar Rapids Gazette in Marshalltown, which contained the article.

Iowa Farmers Agree to Plan

Ames, Ia., July 19 (AP) — The 25 Iowa farmers working on a modified agricultural adjustment program for Iowa reached an agreement of the essentials of a plan last night, it was learned today.

The farmers and experiment station workers, who labored for three weeks on the plan withheld its details.

They disclosed, however, that they expect to present a complete draft of the proposal to a statewide meeting of county corn-hog chairmen here tomorrow. Recommendations approved will be forwarded to the AAA at Washington, D. C.

The farmers, many of whom are county corn hog chairmen, were asked by the experiment station to help work out a new adjustment program.

It was learned there was a hot debate last night on whether the program should be based on the amount of grass and legumes grown on the farm, or continue under the contracted acres idea.

Report Mahan Seen In Iowa

Sioux City, Iowa, July 19 (AP)—Sioux City police today received a report that a man resembling William Mahan, wanted for the $200,000 kidnaping of George Weyerhaeuser at Tacoma, Wash., was seen asleep in an automobile parked on a side road north of Winnebago, Neb., 25 miles south of Sioux City.

The report was made to police by a man who refused to divulge his name. He said that he was driving near the Nebraska town when he saw a car parked off the highway and that the man asleep behind the wheel strongly resembled published pictures of the outlaw.

Mahan is thought to be in this section and is suspected of having been one of the three gunmen who early Tuesday abducted Charles E. Mack, night marshal at Hooper, Neb. Mack said one of the men looked very much like Mahan.

CHILD WOUNDED DUE TO INSANITY OF MOULTON MAN

Police Firing at Fleeing Car Hit Boy Curled Up in Back Seat of Machine

When a man yesterday drove into the R. A. Wright filling station at Eighteenth and East State sts. and had seven gallons of gas and a quart of oil put in a Model A Ford car which bore no license plates, and then airily informed Mr. Wright that the purchase price of the gasoline "could be taken care of" and drove away, things happened. Wright tried to stop the car and to grab the ignition key out of it. He was not successful, however. He then called the police.

The net result is that Harold Fitzhugh, formerly of Moulton and more recently of Murray, Iowa, has been found guilty of insanity and was last night taken to the hospital at Mt. Pleasant.

His 11 year old son, Harold Fitzhugh Jr., is recovering from a bullet wound in his right arm and a slight wound in his right leg.

Gave Chase. After being called police officers gave chase to Fitzhugh and caught up with his car several miles east of Centerville. The police car drove around Fitzhugh and stopped as officers tried to halt the unlicensed Ford. Fitzhugh kept right on going and one of the officers was forced to jump out of the way in order to keep from being hit. Again and again the police sought to halt the machine, but unsuccessfully. They then fired into the back of the car, and turned around and came back to Centerville and phoned Bloomfield officers to be on the lookout for the car.

It so happened that one of the bullets fired at the car went thru the spare tire and into the body of the machine where two of Fitzhugh's small children were curled up on the back seat. Harold was hit while curled up, in such a manner that the same bullet inflicted the arm and leg wound.

Moulton Call. A phone call from Moulton brought information that Fitzhugh had returned there. Deputy Sheriff Ray Brunson and the police went to Moulton, put him under arrest and brought him here where the insane commission examined him and found him insane.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzhugh formerly lived in Moulton. They had been apart recently. Mrs. Fitzhugh operating a hotel in Moulton while Mr. Fitzhugh took charge of their home in Murray, Iowa, where his parents reside. Mrs. Fitzhugh had been caring for three of the children and the father took care of two.

Two Other Car Workers Beaten by Pickets at Car Barns

Council Bluffs, Ia., July 19 (AP)—Two persons were reported wounded by gunfire from a non-striking street car employee defending himself against a crowd of pickets at the Council Bluffs street car barn early today.

First reports said six shots were fired by the tram worker as he raced from his automobile to the car barn, and James Dawson and Richard Stevenson, strikers, fell wounded. Dawson was hit in the abdomen and Stevenson in the shoulder.

The mob retaliated by demolishing the automobile with bricks and setting fire to it.

The mobs started out immediately after a strike sympathy meeting at Bayless park here where union leaders cautioned their followers against violence.

Union County Stops Relief

Creston, Ia., July 19 (AP)—Union county supervisors, informed by one farmer that he had unsuccessfully tried to employ seven men on relief, suspended all work relief in the county indefinitely.

Work relief also was halted yesterday in Page and Washington counties while Hamilton county eliminated 90 men from relief rolls.

Lifeguard Takes To Nose Awning As Beauty Hint

Rochester, N. Y. (AP)—His best girl told Lifeguard Derwood Brugh that he would have to do something about his sunburned nose, or else.

So Brugh started bathers at one of Rochester's municipal beaches on Lake Ontario by wearing a nose awning. Shapes of soft leather like a miniature horse's blinker, it was tape to the bridge of his proboscis.

Other guards and bathers laughed at first. Now they are taking up the idea.

"A nose is very funny," mused Chief Guard Bill Cox. "The rest of the body takes on a nice tan, but the nose never does anything but turn very red."

Waterloo Record of 100 Was Yesterday's High; Weather Man Predicts Higher Today

Des Moines, July 19 (AP)—A bright summer sun gave the mercury an early boost on its way to the 100-degree mark in Iowa today.

The weather bureau said yesterday's new high temperatures may be superceded late today.

Waterloo reported an official top of 100 yesterday, but an unofficial reading at Ames showed 101.

Three drownings were reported and a number of persons were overcome by the mid-summer heat.
